Make sure it's based on the Reef Knot
Bows come out where rope comes in.
It is not based on the Granny Knot!

The direction of the second hitch must be the same as the first!
Correctly done, the hitches will form a clove hitch. Incorrectly reversed, the hitches will form a cow hitch.

Long Hank:

HANKING A LONG ROPE

Hold the end of the rope in one hand then, by making loops, coil it on the same hand, twisting it carefully so that it lies limp. When you have nearly finished coiling the rope, take up one loop, pass it around the whole hank and back through the loops held in your hand. You can hang the rope up by this loop.

Look after your ropes and they will look after you. Always pack your ropes away neatly.
